The Man with a Patent.

There were only half a dozen people in the palace car all day long, and after dinner, when the man who had been sleeping and reading in seat No. 13 came over to me for a chat, I welcomed him with open arms. He said his name was Saunders, and that he had a patent or improvement on some part of a locomotive. He was going through to Cincinnati to have it perfected or adopted or something of the sort. He had been in partnership with a mean man—a man who had tried to swindle him out of a fortune. To get even he had stolen the patent and run away. He had it with him in a valise. That was all he said just then, but later on he confided to me the fact that at a town about thirty miles away this wicked partner of his might possibly be on hand to board the train and attempt to wrest the treasure from his keeping. He wanted my advice, and I offered to take charge of the valise. He thanked me with great effusiveness, and as we approached the town he shut himself into the smoking compartment.

As the train drew up I saw an old acquaintance on the platform, and while we were talking a posse was hunting the train for my friend. They didn't find him, as he had dropped off and struck out for the country. I went on to Cincinnati, taking his valise along, and although I was there four days he didn't show up. I arranged to leave it with the landlord, and it was carried to the office to be opened by a meddling clerk.

Instead of a patent it contained wedges, drills, a brace, fuse and other neat little devices for successfully working a burglar's job, and it cost me two days of the hardest kind of talk to satisfy the chief of police that I wasn't in it. I had ridden over 100 miles with a full fledged burglar, and one who had made his mark, and I must say he was a better talker and more of a gentleman than any governor I ever met.—New York Sun

Will a Corpse Bleed?

Formerly there was a popular belief in a widespread superstition that the corpse of a murdered person would bleed afresh from the wounds that had caused death did the murderer touch it or even allow his eyes to rest upon it. The belief is shown to have been universally established in Scotland as late as 1668. In that year one Philip Standfield was arrested for the murder of a person who had been buried several days. Although the man had lain in the grave almost a fortnight, Sir George Mackenzie, the crown counsel, caused the body to be exhumed and brought into open court to apply what people thought would be the test of Standfield's guilt or innocence. The sworn deposition of several witnesses is as follows:

"God Almighty himself was pleased to bear a share in the testimonies which we produced. That divine power which makes the blood circulate during life has oftentimes, in all countries, opened a passage for it after death upon such occasions. After the wounds had been sewed up, and the body designedly shaken up and down—and, which is most wonderful, after the body had been buried several days, which naturally causes the blood to congeal—upon Standfield's touching it the blood darted and sprang out, to the great astonishment of the surgeons who were there to watch the event. Standfield, astonished more than they, threw down the body, crying, 'Oh God! Oh God!' and, cleaning his hands, grew so faint that the doctors had to give him a cordial."—St Louis Republic.

A Practical Lesson.

One chilly evening the sitting room in which my pupils and I sat was warmed by a grate fire. Shaking out some small live coals, I bade the boys observe which of them turned black soonest. They were quick to see that the smallest did, but they were unable to tell why. They were reminded of the rule they had committed to paper, but to no purpose, until I broke a large glowing coal into a score of fragments which became black almost at once. Then one of them cried, "Why, smashing that coal gave it more surface!" This young fellow was studying the elements of astronomy at school, so I had him give us some account of how the planets differ from one another in size, how the moon compares with the earth in mass, and how vastly larger than any of its worlds is the sun.

Explaining to him the theory of the solar system's fiery origin, I shall not soon forget his keen delight—in which the others presently shared—when it burst upon him that because the moon is much smaller than the earth it must be much colder; that, indeed, it is like a small cinder compared with a large one. It was easy to advance from this to understanding why Jupiter, with eleven times the diameter of the earth, still glows faintly in the sky, and then to note that the sun pours out its wealth of heat and light because the immensity of its bulk has, comparatively speaking, so little surface to radiate from.—George Hies in Popular Science.

FREE COINAGE VS. THE FORCE BILL.

There are several Republican Senators who deserve the thanks of the people who do not believe in bayonet rule in the United States. Prominent among these are Stewart and Jones of Nevada, and Teller and Wolcott of Colorado. Stewart, who believes in doing something for the material interests of the country instead of terrorizing citizens at the polls, antagonized the Force bill with a motion to take up the bill to provide against the contraction of the currency, and the motion prevailed by a vote of 34 to 29. This, it is believed, is a death blow to the Force bill, which was introduced by Lodge, of Massachusetts, in the House of Representatives, and passed by that body before the November elections. Under its provisions the United States army would have to be increased to furnish troops at polling places, and American citizens would have to go to the polls between armed rows of bayonets.

The bill to prevent the contraction of the currency, which Senator Stewart moved to consider, is printed in full in today's JOURNAL. It was introduced by Senator Sherman in December, at which time the amendment, which is also in the JOURNAL, was offered by Senator Reagan, of Texas. The great fight will be on the amendment, which provides for free coinage, but with all the Democrats and several Republican Senators of marked ability in favor of it, there should be no doubt of its passage.

SOME FACTS AND FIGURES.

A statement printed elsewhere in the JOURNAL shows the revenue derived by the State from the several counties for the year ended December 31st, 1890. It aggregates $224,873 97, of which $16,472 65 was paid by Ormsby county and $19,153.88 by Storey county. These two counties which together pay only in round numbers $35,000 toward maintaining the State Government, which is $8,000 less than is paid by Washoe county alone, determine who the principal State officers shall be, defeat old, respected citizens and heavy tax payers, dominate the State Government, control legislation, and under what is generally termed "boss rule," say a convention shall not be held to amend the constitution, though a majority of the people of the State voted for such a convention.

Isn't it time the majority of the people of Nevada shook off the yoke and declared their independence of such rule? We do not believe such serfdom is Republican, and Washoe, which has ever been noted for the independence of its citizens, should take an initiative in ridding the State of it. Let our Legislative delegation make a determined stand for a constitutional convention, and the members from Central and Eastern Nevada will rally to their standard.

Jim Townsend Rescued.

Special to the Journal.

Carson, January 6.—Jim Townsend, of the Homer Index, who was reported under a snow slide, has been rescued all right. He went out with Charles Huber to work on a claim and went into the cabin at the mouth of the tunnel to get tools. Townsend was standing between the cabin and the tunnel when the snow slide came down the hill. Huber was fifty yards away and seeing a mass of snow and boulders coming shouted to Townsend, then started along the hill to get out of the track of the slide, about one hundred feet from the cabin. Townsend started to run into the tunnel or cabin, and Huber ran for his life. The slide buried the cabin and he could hear the crushing in of the roof and timbers as the boulders came on it. Townsend was found in the tunnel, being dug out after three days.

Wanted Silver Dollars.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Messrs. Merriell and Morse, the gentlemen who recently tendered a silver brick to the Superintendent of the Mint at Philadelphia to make it into silver dollars for their benefit, to-day made a written demand upon the Director of the Mint to instruct the Supt. to receive and coin the bullion as requested. Director Leach replied to them stating the action of the Supt. and quoting the provisions of the Act of July 14, 1890.

Cattle Recovered From the Indians.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, January 6.—The Commissioner of Indian Affairs has received the following telegram, dated Pine Ridge: Chief Horder Hugh has returned with 300 cattle. We have no information as to whether any are scattered over the range. He says he thinks the hostiles burned the ranch after he left. These 300 head were all that were recovered from an original herd of about 3,500 head driven off by the hostiles.

Senate Proceedings.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Proceeding to discuss the section of the bill providing for the purchase of 12,000,000 ounces of silver, Teller said he washed his hands of any responsibility for that. He had no interest or sympathy with men who speculated in silver. He denied any knowledge of the alleged silver pool. The pending bill was not brought forward in the interests of the silver States; the proposition had come from New York and not from the silver States. They were indifferent about it and they were indifferent as to the price of silver as a single question. Their great interest in the question was, that silver should be used as money. Referring to the condition of American farmers, Teller said the farmers of America had made themselves heard last November, to his regret, and to the regret of Senators on his side of the chamber. They had been found voting, almost unanimously, with the Democratic party. Why? They had not changed their politics, but they had been dissatisfied with Republican management of financial affairs, and for one he did not wonder at it. He had tried last year to have the Senate listen to their voice. He knew they wanted free coinage of silver.

He opposed the fourth section of the bill, which provides for the issue of 200,000,000 two per cent bonds. It was (Teller asserted) in the interest of two classes only, the silver speculators of New York and the bankers of the country. It absolutely ignored the people of the United States and their demands for more money. He alluded to the silver act of last session as a mere makeshift, and said that there was but one sure method, and that was free coinage of silver. Merrill then addressed the Senate. In view of the late financial panic in New York and of the rather popular demand for some increase of currency, he had been willing to switch a point, in order to keep step with the Senators from Colorado and Nevada. But appetite grew by what it fed upon. It had not been enough to assent without a whimper to purchase $12,000,000 worth of foreign silver supposed to be in the hands of speculators, nor to assent to a provision for the issue of treasury notes to the extent of $180,000,000 to purchase silver bullion, but it was proposed that whenever the market price of silver bullion should be a dollar or over for 37 1/2 grains of pure silver, that the purchase of silver should cease and that free coinage of silver should take place, yet all these propositions tipped with silver promised (Merrill said) no finality, but were stretched out to the crack of doom. Vest argued in favor of free coinage of silver he replied, to Merrill, and in the course of his remarks alluded to the statement that he had received a letter from ex-President Cleveland recanting some of his views on the silver question, as not having the slightest foundation. All that he (Vest) had ever said was that he had reason to believe Cleveland had, after further examination modified to some extent his opinion in regard to the free coinage of silver. As to the alleged combination between Democratic Senators and silver Senators he denied its existence. At the close of Vest's remarks the Senate went into executive session and soon adjourned.

The Jewett Case Dismissed.

Special to the Journal.

CONCORD, N. H., January 6.—The closing arguments in the proceedings against House Clerk Jewett was made to-day and the Court dismissed the cases against him on the grounds of want of jurisdiction. This decision leaves the entire matter of making up the roll of members of the House in Jewett's hands, and will result in the election of Tuttle, (Rep.), for Governor, and the Republican United States Senator.

Weather Report.

Special to the Journal.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 6.—Forecast till 8 P. M., Wednesday, for Nevada and Northern California. Fair weather, except light rain or snow at Winnemucca and Eureka.

House Proceedings.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, January 6.—In the discussion on the shipping bill Wheeler responded, the Democrats always voted in the interests of the country, he contended that every effort heretofore made to build up shipping by subsidies had failed, and produced exactly opposite results to what had been expected. Herbert, (Ala.), spoke at length against the bill and pending his remarks the Committee rose and the House adjourned.

Representative Wheeler, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to-day reported the House substitute for the Senate bill to revive the grade of Lieutenant General in the army. It authorizes the President to appoint a Lieutenant General, who will be selected from among those officers of the army who have distinguished themselves for courage and ability.

Mine Closed Down.

Special to the Journal.

VIRGINIA, January 6.—The Alta mine shut down to-day, and the mill stamps will be hung up to-morrow. The shut down throws fifty men out of employment. Exhaustion of ore resources above the Sinto tunnel, 1,030 level, given as the cause. The Directors own nearly all of the capital stock and are not inclined to assess it to pay the cost of draining the flooded levels, where it is claimed large ore reserves are located.

Montana Politics.

Special to the Journal.

HELENA, January 6.—There was no change in the legislative situation to-day. The Senate and Democratic House met in joint session, and the Governor read his message. The Governor calls attention to the dangers that may result from failure of legislation. There is no provision for canvassing the State election in 1892 in regard to choosing Presidential electors, and if some provision is not made the State will lose its vote in the electoral college.

The Washington Legislature to Convene To-day.

Special to the Journal.

OLYMPIA, January 6.—Senator Squire arrived from Washington this morning to remain during the Senatorial fight. Nearly all the members of the Legislature are on the ground, and the canvass for the Senate is going on vigorously. The Legislature convenes to-morrow.

Governor Stevenson's Estate.

Special to the Journal.

CARSON, Nev., January 6.—Mrs. C. C. Stevenson, widow of the late Governor, has been appointed administratrix of the estate. Legal steps for the partial recovery of the estate by the sons will soon commence in this city.

STATE REVENUE.

Statement of the Receipts From the Several Counties, With Gains and Losses in 1890.

Douglas county, $6,943 02; gain $277 30.
Elko county, $36,999 12; loss $3,879 39.
Esmeralda county, $10,262 14; loss $1,726 87.
Eureka county, $21,186 04; loss $350 80.

Storey county, $19,153 88; loss $6,510 25.
Washoe county, $43,625 22; loss $179 07.
White Pine county, $5,935 88; gain $8,129.

Total falling off in receipts from counties in 1890, as compared with 1889, $18,418 93.

In 1889 the total taxable property of the State amounted to $26,738,378 53; in 1889 it amounted to $20,629,681 21, and in 1890 to $24,063,394 34, which shows a falling off in 1889 from the year preceding of $108,597 32, and a falling off in 1889 and 1890 from 1888 of $1,966,296 64.

This decline is due to the unprecedented drought of 1889, when the great agricultural and grain producing valley of Paradise did not produce a pound of grain, and there was not even good pasturage in the natural meadow lands which drought was followed by the most severe winter ever experienced in Nevada, causing the loss of tens of thousands of live stock in the great grazing counties of Humboldt and Elko.

THE SENATE FINANCIAL BILL.

The Measure Which Stewart Called up Yesterday.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 29, 1890.

EDITOR RENO JOURNAL:—Will Congress pass any financial measure at this session? A week ago nine out of ten of the best informed men about the capital building would have unhesitatingly answered this question in the affirmative. To-day the same men will tell you that it is extremely doubtful, with the chances against such legislation. You naturally ask what has caused the change of opinion? The principal cause has been the fear that any financial bill, if introduced before the Senate, would be amended so as to provide for a free coinage measure.

A caucus of some of the New England States Senators endorsed the following FINANCIAL BILL, which was introduced by Senator Sherman to provide against the contraction of the currency:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby directed to purchase from time to time, during the calendar year eighteen hundred and ninety-one, silver bullion to the aggregate of twelve million ounces at the market price thereof, not exceeding one dollar for three hundred and seventy-one and twenty-five hundredths grains of pure silver, in addition to the amount required to be purchased by the act approved July fourteenth, eighteen hundred and ninety, entitled "An act directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon, and for other purposes," of which sum of twelve million ounces there shall be purchased, at the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury, not exceeding three million ounces in any one month; and the Secretary of the Treasury shall issue in payment for such purchases of silver bullion Treasury notes of the United States of the same form and description and having the same legal qualities as the notes provided for by the said act. And such Treasury notes shall be a legal tender and be received, redeemed, and reissued in the same manner and to the same extent as other Treasury notes.

SEC. 2. That the compulsory requirement of deposits of United States bonds with the Treasurer of the United States by national banks having a capital of not more than fifty thousand dollars is hereby limited in amount to one thousand dollars of bonds for each and every national bank. Provided, that the voluntary withdrawal of bonds for the retirement of such national bank notes shall not exceed the sum of three million dollars in any one month. And provided further, that this act shall not apply to the deposits of bonds which may be required by the Secretary of the Treasury to secure deposits of public moneys in the national banks.

SEC. 3. That upon any deposits already or hereafter made of any United States bonds bearing interest, in the manner required by law, any national banking association making the same shall be entitled to receive from the Comptroller of the Currency circulating notes of different denominations, in blank, registered and countersigned as approved by law, not exceeding in the whole amount the par value of the bonds deposited: Provided, that at no time shall the total amount of such notes issued to any such association exceed the amount at such time actually paid in of its capital stock.

SEC. 4. That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to issue, in a sum or sums not exceeding in the aggregate two hundred million dollars, coupon or registered bonds of the United States, in such form as he may prescribe, and of denominations of fifty dollars or some multiple of that sum, redeemable in lawful money at the pleasure of the United States, on and after July first, nineteen hundred, and bearing interest payable semi-annually in such money at the rate of two per centum per annum. And he is authorized to sell or dispose of any of the bonds issued under this act at not less than their par value for any lawful money of the United States, or for gold or silver certificates, and to apply the proceeds thereof to the redemption of or to the purchase of any of the bonds of the United States, and for no other purposes whatever. And a sum necessary to pay the expense of preparing, issuing, advertising and disposing of said bonds is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

SEC. 5. Whenever the market price of silver bullion shall have been continuously for a period of one year one dollar or more for three hundred and seventy-one and twenty-five one-hundredths grains of pure silver, all purchasing of silver bullion by the Secretary of the Treasury shall cease, and thereupon and thereafter any owner of silver bullion not too base for the operations of the mint may deposit the same in amounts of the value of not less than one hundred dollars at any mint of the United States to be formed into standard dollars or bars for his benefit and without charge; and at the said owner's option he may receive instead the equivalent thereof in the Treasury notes of the said act approved July fourteenth, eighteen hundred and ninety.

SEC. 6. That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby authorized to cause the subsidiary silver coins of the United States now in or which may hereafter be received into the Treasury and subtreasuries of the United States, which are abraded, worn, mutilated, defaced, or otherwise unfit for circulation, or are of denominations for which there is no current demand, to be recoined at the mints of the United States into such denominations of silver coins now authorized by law as may be required to meet the demand therefor. That the loss incident to the recoining of such uncurrent silver coins into new coins shall be paid from the gain arising from the coining of silver bullion into coin of a nominal value exceeding the cost thereof, denominated "the silver profit fund."

SEC. 7. The Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized and directed to issue Treasury notes of the act approved July fourteenth, eighteen hundred and ninety, to an amount equal to the market value of the bullion made from the trade dollars now in the Treasury, and of the bullion to be formed from other trade dollars, and also upon the bullion value of ten million dollars of the abraded and otherwise uncurrent subsidiary silver coin now in the Treasury.

SEC. 8. That paragraph eight of chapter three hundred and twenty-seven of the Supplement to the Revised Statutes of the United States, which requires that refining and parting of bullion shall be carried on at the mints of the United States and at the assay office at New York, be amended by inserting after the word "law" in the fourth line, the following words: "and from the proceeds of the sale of by-products resulting from the operations of the refinery," so that the paragraph shall read:

"And it shall be lawful to apply the moneys arising from charges collected from depositors for these operations pursuant to law, and from the proceeds of the sale of by-products resulting from the operations of the refinery, so far as may be necessary, to the defraying in full of the expenses thereof, including labor, materials, and wastage."

SEC. 9. That an Act to authorize the receipt of United States gold coin in exchange for gold bars, approved May twenty-sixth, eighteen hundred and eighty-two, be amended to read as follows:

"That the Superintendents of the coinage mints and of the United States assay office at New York may, with the approval of the Director of the Mint, but not otherwise, receive United States gold coin from any holder thereof, in sums of not less than five thousand dollars, and pay and deliver in exchange therefor gold bars in value equaling such coin so received: Provided, That the Director of the Mint, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may impose for such exchange a charge which in his judgment shall equal the cost of manufacturing the bars."

SEC. 10. That it is the continued policy of the United States to use both gold and silver as full legal tender money under the ratio now existing in the United States, or that may be hereafter established by the United States, acting in accord with other nations; and the United States is willing to join with other commercial nations in a conference to adopt a common ratio between gold and silver, with a view of establishing, internationally, the use of both metals as full legal-tender money, and securing fixity of relative value between them. And when, in the judgment of the President, a sufficient number of such nations shall have entered into such international arrangement he may declare the ratio so fixed to be the existing ratio in the United States, and all coinage thereafter shall be at such ratio until changed by law. The President shall, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoint Commissioners, not exceeding three, who shall attend any such conference on behalf of the United States, and they shall report their doings to the President, who shall transmit the same to Congress. Said Commissioners shall receive the sum of five thousand dollars and their reasonable expenses, to be approved by the Secretary of State; and the amount necessary to pay such compensation and expenses is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

SEC. 11. That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be, and the same are hereby, repealed.

This bill, as the reader will see, provides for the purchase of 12,000,000 additional ounces of silver and for the recoining of the $25,000,000 in fractional currency and trade dollars now in the Treasury, and it was introduced without any loss of time. Upon its introduction Senator Reagan of Texas immediately arose and offered the following

AMENDMENT FOR FREE COINAGE:

Strike out Section One and in lieu thereof insert the following: "That from and after the passage of this act the coinage of silver dollars by the mints of the United States shall be free and unlimited, as gold is now by law. That any holder of silver bullion, not too base for the operations of the mint, may deposit the same in any of the mints of the United States in sums of not less than one hundred dollars, and shall receive therefor silver dollars or silver certificates, in denominations of not less than one dollar nor more than one thousand dollars, as he may choose, to the amount of one dollar for every three hundred and seventy-one and twenty-five one-hundredths grains of pure silver so deposited. That the silver dollars so issued shall be a unit of value, and they and the silver certificates hereby authorized to be issued shall be a lawful tender for all debts, public and private. When any person shall have deposited silver bullion in any mint of the United States as herein provided for it shall be the duty of the Director of such mint to give him a certificate therefor stating the sum so deposited, which on presentation at the Treasury or any sub-Treasury of the United States shall entitle the holder to receive the sum called for in such certificate in silver dollars or silver certificates, as he may choose; and the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to coin from time to time a sufficient quantity of the silver bullion so deposited to redeem certificates offered for redemption or to exchange for silver bullion.

Section 4, strike out all after the word "to," line 6, down to and including the word "to" where it occurs the second time in line 25.

Strike out all of section 5. The prompt manner in which the Sherman bill was met, has alarmed the opponents of free coinage in both parties, and I have reason to believe that what amounts practically to an agreement has been made between them which will prevent any financial legislation at all at this session. Certainly none is looked for immediately, or Senator Allison would not have gone home to spend the Christmas, as he has done. This is far from satisfactory to the silver men, and if any opportunity occurs they will take things in their own hands, but the way legislation is managed in both Senate and House, makes it extremely doubtful whether such an opportunity will be given them. Of course it is possible something might happen in the financial centers which might bring about a sudden change of mind on the part of the opponents of free coinage.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. Distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels, are some of the more common symptoms. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet surely and efficiently. It tones the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and by thus overcoming the local symptoms removes the sympathetic effects of the disease, banishes the headache, and refreshes the tired mind.

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat I did not digest. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness, or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble, I think, was aggravated by my business, which is that of a painter, and from being more or less shut up in a room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla—took three bottles. It did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced."
